DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP? A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something to relieve and cure the more serious and dangerous results of a live cold, long troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible, if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced into all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Doan's German Syrup." It not only soothes and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists to the world. For sale by Hayden & Robertson.

THE PRESIDENT has pardoned John L. Baser, who was convicted of embezzling money order funds while post master of Paris, Ky. Baser was convicted on a technical point and was not considered guilty of any willful wrong by his many friends who have consequently rejoiced at his pardon. He is a popular newspaper man.

THE Supreme Court has ordered a reargument in the railroad cases involving the constitutionality of the McComb Railroad bill which was decided unconstitutional by Judge Evans of the U. S. Court at Louisville.

The impression at Washington is that Judge Evans will be sustained.

CONDENSED STORIES.

How the Late P. D. Armour Remembered His Old Employer.

Some years ago, when Armour & Co. undertook to introduce their soap manufacturers in the east, a representative of the firm was sent to Philadelphia with a large quantity of goods. He was met by a peddler to distribute the soap. Among those who responded to the advertisement was a white haired man who had been peddling in the streets of that city for years.

"Do you know Phil Armour?" asked the old man.

"Yes, everybody in the west knows him."

"Well, I used to know him. I don't believe I told him now. I don't know if I must have changed a great deal."

"When did you know him?"

"Oh, it's a good many years ago. He was indentured to me as a farmer's apprentice when he was a boy. He wanted to be released so he could go to California in 1849 to hunt for gold, so I let him go. Yes, I haven't seen Phil for a good many years."

The venerable peddler was given an opportunity to see what he could do in the way of selling soap made by his former apprentice, but he was not much of a success. When the representative returned to Chicago, he related the meeting in Philadelphia to Mr. Armour. The packer immediately sent a substantial present to the old man.

"I was bound out to that man," said Mr. Armour, "and I feel kindly toward him, so he gave me my first chance to make a fortune."

When the old man got the present from his former apprentice, he wrote, saying he did not wish to receive charity even from his former "bound boy" and asked if there was not a job somewhere about the place at which he could work for one old, living honestly. Mr. Armour told him he had no work for one so old, and he settled an annuity on him that kept him the rest of his days without work.

None of them had a vote. A well known politician told the story on himself. After most affectionately kissing and praising an assortment of 11 children and marveling much at the resemblance they all bore to a manly lady, he requested the crowd generally.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said he, "this will never do. If we are to ride this way for a week, we shall all be lunatics. Can't some one tell us a story?"

There was dead silence. No one even smiled. When addressed individually, they all shook their heads. Then he asked if any of them could sing a song. No one of them could.

"I'll sing," said he, "I'll sing a song myself."

Now, if there was any one thing which he accomplished in his life, it was to sing a song. He often sang that "any fool could sing a song to one tune, but it takes a man of genius to sing a song to half a dozen tunes at the same time."

Consequently when on that winter morning he broke into the city, the passengers forgot the cold, the long journey and other material things and laughed until they were sore. But he accomplished his object. In a few minutes some one was found who could sing, and then the story telling began, in which Donnelly, of course, shone supreme, and for the rest of the trip they were the jolliest people that ever came to give us greetings to the Mississippi—Minneapolis Times.

THE KENTON'S PART. An exceptionally good story, which has the advantage of being true, is circulating in parliamentary circles in Berlin. When the Emperor William informed Herr von Bulow at Hamburg that he was now imperial chancellor, Herr von Bulow naturally expressed his delight, and perhaps he really was delighted. But all at once he seemed to be considering something, and the emperor, perceiving this, said: "The matter now, Bulow?" The latter answered that he had just received a telegram from his wife. She had nothing against the chancellorship, but a great deal against the chancellor's palace, for, while her husband was a regular little jewel box, the great clearing down in the chancelor's palace would not be completed before this time 1901.

He gave his greetings to the emperor, his majesty replied kindly, "and tell her I would contribute my part toward the clearing down of her palace by her husband."

HE WOULD TRAVEL. Once in awhile one sees in some New England village people who have scarcely set foot outside the narrow limits of their own township in the course of their lives. They are people, even in their most wide awake and vigorous years, have a way of measuring the outside world by their own little standards which is quite refreshing.

What about you if you had been William? Inquired one of the group gathered around the big fireplace in the little inn or tavern at Hallowell of the tavern keeper, a man of wide experience and wisdom by his friends.

"The first thing I should do," said William judicially, "is what I would advise any one to do—fix up my home a bit, make a few improvements in the old place, and then, impressively—"Then I should travel."

"Yes," he added, with an air of one who already started on his journey, "I should certainly travel. I should go to Rome, where, by some of you know, is upward of 30 miles from here!"

He had, indeed, born of the mere suggestion of such a mighty undertaking, fell on the ground around the fire—Exchange.

THE NEWSPAPER LAMP READERS. "Interesting are the schemes for the decoration of modern city streets. The prominent lamp shades, with weird, dark figures of women governed in clinging robes, and their hair in billowing, wandering curls, stiff with veils and cypress hedges, are certainly new and original. Some of the staffs, specially woven for the artists who designed them, are far beyond the reach of any ordinary painter. Many are chieftains of color and design, especially a curious native material with dull greenish blue motifs outlined in black, and a woman's figure in dark blue, slender and half draped, the folds of her bronze head and hair flowing down her feet. She holds a light in either hand, her eyes cast down."

Pity and Beauty

The most beautiful thing in the world is the baby, all dimples and joy. The most pitiful thing is that same baby, thin and in pain. And the mother does not know that a little fat makes all the difference.

Dimples and joy have gone, and left hollows and fear; the fat, that was comfort and color and curve—all but pity and love-is gone.

The little one gets no fat from her food. There is something wrong in either her food or food-mill. She has had no fat for weeks; is living on what she had stored in that plump little body of hers; and that is gone. She is starving for fat; it is death, be quick!

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the fat she can take; it will save her.

When she takes this picture on, it is a good many years ago. He was indentured to me as a farmer's apprentice when he was a boy. He wanted to be released so he could go to California in 1849 to hunt for gold, so I let him go. Yes, I haven't seen Phil for a good many years."

Arbuckle's famous Roasted Coffee

The low price at which Arbuckle's famous roasted coffee can be sold is made possible by its enormous sale. It should not be classed with the inferior imitations sold at a cent a pound less than Arbuckle's. It has a quality greatly superior to these imitations and makes many more cups of coffee to the pound. No other firm in the world can buy coffee so good advantage as the producers of Arbuckle's Coffee. No other coffee is cleaned, roasted or blended with such great care and skill. When you buy Arbuckle's you get better quality and greater value than you can get in any other coffee at anywhere near the same price. You also get with each package a definite part in some useful article. Full information with each package. Save the signatures.

YOUNG ICE CREAM PATRONS. Every day a big freezer of ice cream is made in the senate restaurant. No senator ever eats ice cream in the daytime, and the few ladies who take lunch in the restaurant rarely call for it. The chief patrons of the frozen food are the page boys.

The love of these youngsters for ice cream surpasses all understanding. It is a purely juvenile taste, and they indulge in it to their hearts' content. The substantial sandwich, the succulent pie, the ninety and nine other things that a sensible man would select for his lunch have no attractions for the bright little fellows. They want ice cream and plenty of it. At lunch-time half a dozen pages can be seen burying their noses into heaped up plates of ice cream, while their faces, like the very mirrors of contentment.

If it wasn't for the pages, the ice cream freezer would have to go out of business—Washington Post.

THE U. S. A. GOING PAID. The "distant general of the Grand Army of the Republic reports that during the last year the death rate among its members has rapidly increased. At present rates are being sounded over the graves of the old soldiers at the rate of 1,000 a month. During the last ten years the membership of the order has decreased by more than a third. In the department of Illinois the loss by death has been estimated at 10,000. During 1900 more than 3 per cent of the total enrollment at the beginning of the year answered the roll call when they were faced with the specter of death. The number of deaths was more than one over every Grand Army post in the country. Inevitably the death rate of the order must rapidly increase with the passage of each year. Twenty years hence the men who wear the bronze star and eagle will be a mere handful. The flag they will be practically extinct—Chicago Tribune.

TRAINS AS PLEASURE RESORTS. In this twentieth century we shall expect bands of music and dancing, says The Railway Magazine, at intervals of the journey and perhaps entertainments in the style of the "theatricals" of former times. The advertisements of this nature: "First class company of star London artists carried." The modern Utopia will be found in the railway carriage, and if the modern system of competition is retained the new underground, will, some modification it will become one of the fashionable resorts of pleasure.

HAVING SUPERSTITIONS OF THE FETTER. The coasters of the Fiji Islands will not enter until they can sit flat upon the ground directly over a triangle made of three small fish bones. Then only they handle the food with the left hand.

The inhabitants of the interior of the same islands will not partake of food while a cloud is in sight, especially if the cloud lies in the west, fearing that the Great Air Whale, whose hollowing thrills is often heard in that country, will peep upon and utterly annihilate them for such irreverence.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE. Dangers That Follow in the Wake of Too Much Ventilation. When it comes to the matter of ventilation, the clean, fresh air, which is so much needed, is often blown away by the wind, and it is just about as hot. Such food may be nutritious for the chaps in the crowd who relish ground glass and sets words and temperative, but it shortens the lives of average people—Healthy Home.

STOCKBIRDS is the name given to a peculiar breakfast dish highly prized by a Brooklyn housewife. Take one cup of Indian meal, pour over it one pint of boiling water, add a lump of butter the size of an egg and a spoonful of oil. Stir well together and let the mixture stand overnight. In the morning heat over it thoroughly and add salt to the taste. Bake in a hot oven 30 minutes.

for sale. Mr. Eberharting brought to this office for sale one of the largest sweet potato we have ever seen and the seed are from this variety.

Garden Seed—I have all the varieties in bulk mostly, of the latest and best, especially in peas, beans, early corn and potatoes. Northern seed potatoes at lowest price. Try our Blais Triumph—the best of all.

JOSEPH A. SHADER.

There was a good crowd in town Monday and the offerings of live stock were large, but prices were not high and buyers were not as numerous as usual.
The auctioneers having failed to furnish us a list we are unable to give the sales in detail.
Several stallions were shown on the streets and attracted a good deal of attention.

Several friends and relatives of Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Hableton who left here about two months ago for Japan, have recently returned. They were with Mr.
Hableton in letters to Mrs. J.
H. Lampton, Judge Selman and others, writing interestingly of the country. He says they had a pleasant voyage over and like the place. The letters were written on March 2nd. The town in which the Habletons are located is called Kooka.

Sister Hyacintha one of the sisters of St. Catherine's of Siena, died at that place on last Friday after a short illness.
Sister Hyacintha was known to every one who had occasion to visit St. Catherine for years past as it was part of her duties to receive all visitors and in her pleasant and hospitable way always made visitors feel welcome.
She had been at the institution since a child and had spent her life faithfully in good work.

School Matters.
For several years past, the School Law has provided for the granting of diplomas to pupils of the common schools who have completed the course, and passed a satisfactory examination; but until the present year, little interest has been taken in the matter, either by teachers or pupils. Two years ago, one pupil only, passed the examination; and the following year still showed a lack of interest by the fact that only one pupil for entirely unobtainable a diploma. This year, however, the spirit of the examination was well stirred by the offer by Supt. Bush, of a gold medal to the pupil obtaining the highest average on examination. There were ten contestants for the prize, the early hours of the Sabbath light, when quietness had gently fallen upon her weary body her spirit peacefully took its flight from earth to the heavenly home. On the afternoon of Monday February 11, a large company of friends was present at the Pleasant Grove church where the funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. T. Overstreet, and in the old cemetery around which the stately beeches stand the mortal body of one greatly loved was laid away until the day of resurrection. A devoted mother, a faithful wife, a devoted mother, a loving daughter, a thoughtful sister, a steadfast friend, a good neighbor, a lovely christian has stepped over the border into Immanuel's land.

Arrangements are being made for the presenting of diplomas during the Institute week of the coming summer, the exercises to be made of further interest as an entertainment program to be carried out by the graduates themselves.

Mr. Bush renews his offer of a gold medal to that pupil who shall obtain the highest general average on examination, for the succeeding school year. In addition to this Mr. C. W. Stallings will offer a prize to the pupil passing the most creditable examination in Arithmetic, the papers of the applicant winning the other medal not to be considered in the contest. These offers will be further explained during the session of the Institute, before mentioned, and will be strictly for pupils of common schools.

Through the efforts of the Superintendent, this work has been stimulated, and is the means of arousing the teachers to more thorough and complete work in the preparation of their pupils. If they will only manifest a little interest, it will result in much good, not only to the pupil preparing for the expected examination, but its effects will be visible in every department of school work; and as no one can do a good work without receiving some part of its good, will prove beneficial in its results even to the teacher.

OBITUARY.

On Sunday night February 10, 1901, Mrs. Julia E. Gregory wife of James F. Gregory of Beachland, Washington County, Ky., passed away from earthly scenes and entered into heavenly rest. It is seldom that a family church or community is called upon to give up from its midst one so tenderly loved and so worthy of esteem.

Mrs. Gregory was the daughter of James and Mary A. Watt and was born near Perryville in Boyle county, Ky. June 19, 1880. In the providence of God, her childhood was nurtured in a home where faithful parents guarded her growth and instructed her in the way of life. This early training by godly parents had its natural effect, and on February 2, 1897 in her fifteenth year in a meeting at the Baptist Church in Perryville conducted by Rev. Joseph E. Carter, the young girl publicly gave her heart to the Saviour and took upon her self his yoke of service. Samuel where brook and river meet, at the verge of young womanhood, and looking out on life opening before her, what could have been wiser or happier than the dedication of herself to God, whose favor should ever afterward be as a crown upon her head.

School, as well as home and church, has its influence in forming life, and her early school days, passed in the neighborhood of home and in Perryville, were completed by a course of study of about three years' duration in the Seminary for young ladies at Lexington, Ky., under the management of Dr. Rowland.

Then followed a few years spent at the old home in genial surroundings and in active enjoyment of busy life, partly given up to household duties and partly filled with social pleasure.

April 21, 1896, Julia E. West was united in marriage to James F. Gregory of Washington county, Ky., and this was the beginning of a happy and fruitful married life. Into this home were born seven children of whom six remain—the youngest being an infant boy only two weeks old at the time of the mother's death. In this family all the home virtues were exhibited in a very marked and admireable way. After the birth of her baby, Mrs. Gregory seemed to recover slowly from her sickness, but at turn for the worse came on unexpectedly and it was soon realized that the sands of life were sinking. But a few days before the end came the members of the family were called to her bedside. On Sat-day afternoon and in the strength and calmness of christian faith and submission, she tenderly spoke to them her parting messages and farewells. During

company of friends was present
at the Pleasant Grove church
conducted by Rev. W. T. Over-
away until the day of resurrec-
daughter, a thoughtful sister,
a steadfast friend, a good neigh-
stepped over the border into Immanuel's land.

A Nice Thing
Editing this paper is a nice thing. If we publish jokes people say we are rattle-brained.
If we don't we are old fashioned.
If we publish original matter they say we want give them enough selections they say we are too lazy to write. If we go to the church we are heathen. If we do them we are a hypocrite. If we remain in the office we ought to go out and bustle for laughs.
If we go out then we are not attending to our business. If we wear old clothes they laugh at us. If we wear good clothes they say we have a pull. Now, what are we to do? Just as likely some one will say we stole this item from our exchange and we will do. Clay Center (Kao)
